

Hat's the way to help

● NIALL Mellon aims to get a-head today with his campaign to build homes in South African townships — with his first hard-hat emblem campaign.

More than 2,000 volunteers will sell the €3 emblems.

● And Niall — who was joined by RTE star Miriam O'Callaghan at yesterday's campaign launch — is confident he raise enough cash to top last year's success, when Township Challenge volunteers built 5,000 houses.

● Just 100 places are left for volunteers to take part in the next building blitz this November — when more than 1,000 people will try to erect 6,000 homes.

Since the project started in 2002, Irish volunteers have built more than 22,000 homes in townships.

HEAD START: Miriam O'Callaghan and Niall Mellon yesterday